

LITTLE ROCK RESOURCES LTD.
(the "Corporation")

CODE OF BUSINESS CONDUCT AND ETHICS

1. PURPOSE

This code of business conduct and ethics (this "Code") provides a general statement of the Corporation's expectations regarding the ethical standards that each director, officer, employee, contractor and consultant should adhere to while acting on behalf of the Corporation. Each director, officer, employee, contractor and consultant is expected to read and become familiar with the ethical standards described in this Code and may be required, from time to time, to affirm his or her agreement to adhere to such standards.

Through this Code, we endorse the following principles:

- honest and ethical conduct, including the ethical handling of actual or apparent conflicts of interest between personal and professional relationships;
- full, fair, accurate, timely and understandable disclosure in the Corporation's shareholder reports and in other public communications and filings of the Corporation;
- compliance with applicable governmental laws, rules and regulations; and
- accountability by all our directors, officers, employees, contractors and consultants for adherence to this Code.

This Code outlines the broad principles of legal and ethical business conduct embraced by our Corporation. It is not a complete list of legal or ethical questions a director, officer, employee, contractor or consultant might face during the course of business, and therefore this Code must be applied using common sense and good judgment. Compliance with the spirit as well as the letter of this Code is very important to us.

Any director, officer, employee, contractor or consultant of the Corporation who violates the Code may face disciplinary action up to and including termination of their office or employment with the Corporation for just cause without notice or payment in lieu of notice. Each such individual is expected to review the Code annually to satisfy themselves that they have adhered to the stated principles and standards. Each director, officer, employee, contractor and consultant of the Corporation will be provided with a copy of the Code and will be required to acknowledge, through their signature, their understanding of and their agreement to comply with the Code as a term of their office or employment.

2. ADMINISTRATION

The Corporation's Board of Directors is responsible for setting the standards of business conduct contained in this Code and updating these standards as it deems appropriate to reflect changes in the legal and regulatory framework applicable to the Corporation, the business practices within the Corporation's industry, the Corporation's own business practices, and the prevailing ethical standards of the communities in which the Corporation operates. While the Corporation's Chief Executive Officer will oversee the procedures designed to implement this Code to ensure that they are operating effectively, it is the individual responsibility of each director, officer employee, contractor and consultant of the Corporation to comply with this Code. Those who violate this Code will be subject to disciplinary action.

3. COMPLIANCE WITH LAWS, RULES AND REGULATIONS

Obeying the law, both in letter and in spirit, is the foundation on which the Corporation's ethical standards are built. All directors, officers, employees, contractors and consultants must respect and obey the laws and governmental rules and regulations of the countries, provinces, cities and local communities in which we operate. Although we do not expect that all directors, officers, employees, contractors and consultants will know and understand the details of these applicable laws and regulations, we do expect that everyone will know enough to determine when to seek advice from supervisors, managers or other appropriate personnel.

The Corporation is engaged in a variety of business relationships with other companies, individuals, organizations and levels of government, primarily in Canada, but sometimes also in other countries. In all interactions, the Corporation's employees, contractors, consultants, officers and directors are required to act ethically, honestly and with integrity and to comply with all laws, rules and regulations governing their activities. In dealings with others, Corporation's employees, contractors, consultants, officers and directors must avoid even the perception that favorable treatment is sought in exchange for furnishing or receiving business courtesies. Business courtesies (gifts and entertainment) are designed to build understanding and goodwill in business relationships and may play an important role in some cultures; however, Corporation personnel are always required to exercise good judgement in extending business courtesies and never accept or pay bribes, favors or "kickbacks" for the purpose of securing business transactions. All payments must be necessary and lawful in the host country.

4. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST; CORPORATE OPPORTUNITIES

The Corporation requires that its directors, officers, employees, contractors and consultants, as well as its other agents and representatives, avoid any activity which creates or gives the appearance of a conflict of interest between their personal interests and the Corporation's interests. A conflict of interest generally exists when a person has a direct or indirect personal interest in a transaction or situation that affects or appears to affect his or her judgment and/or divides his or her loyalties between two or more competing interests. A conflict can arise when someone takes action or has an interest that makes it difficult to perform his or her duties on behalf of the Corporation, objectively and effectively. In particular, no director, officer, employee, contractor or consultant shall:

- (a) be a consultant to, or a director, officer or employee of, or otherwise operate an outside business that directly competes with the Corporation's business;
- (b) have any financial interest, including shares ownership, in any such outside business that might create or give the appearance of a conflict of interest;
- (c) seek or accept any personal loan or services from any such outside business, except from financial institutions or service providers offering similar loans or services to third parties under similar terms in the ordinary course of their respective businesses;

- (d) be a consultant to, or a director, officer or employee of, or otherwise operate an outside business if the demands of the outside business would interfere with the director's, officer's or employee's responsibilities with the Corporation;
- (e) accept any personal loan or guarantee of obligations from the Corporation, except to the extent such arrangements are legally permissible;
- (f) conduct business on behalf of the Corporation with immediate family members, which include spouses, children, parents, siblings and persons sharing the same home whether or not legal relatives; or
- (g) taking for themselves opportunities that are discovered through the use of the Corporation's property, information or position.

The appearance of a conflict of interest may exist if an immediate family member of a director, officer, employee, contractor or consultant of the Corporation is a consultant to, or a director, officer or employee of, or has a significant financial interest in, a competitor, supplier or customer of the Corporation, or otherwise does business with the Corporation.

Directors and officers shall notify the Chairman of the Corporation's Audit Committee and employees, contractors and consultants who are not directors or officers shall notify the Chief Executive Officer of the existence of any actual or potential conflict of interest.

5. INSIDER TRADING

Directors, officers, employees, contractors and consultants are expected to fully comply with Canadian corporate and securities laws with respect to the disclosure of "material" corporate information and with respect to "insider" trading in the Corporation's securities. These laws provide for substantial civil and criminal penalties for individuals who fail to comply. Information that reasonably can be expected to affect the market value of a Corporation's shares or to influence an investor's decisions regarding securities transactions is considered "material." Such information may include financial and key business data; merger, acquisition or divestiture discussions; award or cancellation of a major contract; forecasts of future results; significant litigation; and/or gain or loss of a significant customer or supplier.

Insiders are prohibited from transacting in the Corporation's shares with knowledge of material information, in accordance with applicable laws. You may be deemed to have violated these laws even if you innocently pass on information about the Corporation to a friend or family member who then acts on such information and buys or sells the Corporation's shares. To avoid inadvertent disclosure of non-public material information, directors, officers, employees, contractors and consultants should not discuss such information with or in the presence of any unauthorized persons, including family members and friends.

6. CONFIDENTIALITY; PROTECTION AND PROPER USE OF THE CORPORATION'S ASSETS

Directors, officers, employees, contractors and consultants shall maintain the confidentiality of all information entrusted to them by the Corporation or its suppliers, customers or other business partners, except when disclosure is authorized by the Corporation or legally required.

Confidential information includes (1) information marked "Confidential," "Private," "For Internal Use Only," or similar legends, (2) technical or scientific information relating to current and future products, services or research, (3) business or marketing plans or projections, (4) earnings and other internal financial data, (5) personnel information, (6) supply and customer lists and (7) other non-public information that, if disclosed, might be of use to the Corporation's competitors, or harmful to the Corporation or its suppliers, customers or other business partners. Confidential information also includes information that our customers and suppliers have entrusted to us.

To avoid inadvertent disclosure of confidential information, directors, officers, employees, contractors and consultants shall not discuss confidential information with or in the presence of any unauthorized persons, including family members and friends.

The obligation to preserve confidential information continues even after your employment or other relationship with the Corporation ends.

This Code is not intended to modify any separate confidentiality agreement to which a director, officer, employee, contractor or consultant may be subject.

Proper use of all of the Corporation's property, information resources (including internet, email, and intranet) and communications systems is the responsibility of all employees, contractors, consultants, officers and directors. Our physical assets are intended for conducting Corporation business. All electronic and telephonic communication products, intranet and internet servers or any other systems owned, licensed or operated by the Corporation are considered the Corporation's business records, and therefore, Corporation property and should be used in accordance with Corporation corporate policy.

The information, ideas, concepts and know-how described, documented or contained in the Corporation's electronic communications systems and related databases are the intellectual property of the Corporation. The copying or use of the Corporation's intellectual property for personal use or benefit during or after employment with the Corporation is prohibited.

Proprietary information including intellectual property, and Corporation private or confidential information is extremely valuable and must not be disclosed to anyone without proper authorization.

7. FAIR DEALING

The Corporation is committed to promoting the values of honesty, integrity and fairness in the conduct of its business and sustaining a work environment that fosters mutual respect, openness and individual integrity. Directors, officers, employees, contractors and consultants are expected to deal honestly and fairly with the Corporation's customers, suppliers, competitors and other third parties, including governmental agencies. To this end, directors, officers, employees, contractors and consultants shall not:

- (a) make false or misleading statements to customers, suppliers or other third parties;
- (b) make false or misleading statements about competitors;
- (c) solicit or accept from any person that does business with the Corporation, or offer to extend to any such person,

- (i) cash of any amount; or
- (ii) gifts, gratuities, meals or entertainment that could influence or reasonably give the appearance in influencing the Corporation's business relationship with that person or go beyond common courtesies usually associated with accepted business practice;
- (d) solicit or accept any fee, commission or other compensation for referring customers to third-party vendors; or
- (e) otherwise take unfair advantage of the Corporation's customers or suppliers, or other third parties, through manipulation, concealment, abuse of privileged information or any other unfair-dealing practice.

8. DISCRIMINATION AND HARASSMENT

The Corporation is committed to providing equal employment opportunity in employment and will not tolerate any illegal discrimination or harassment. Improper conduct, such as derogatory comments based on racial or ethnic characteristics or religious preferences and unwanted sexual advances, will not be tolerated.

9. HEALTH AND SAFETY

The Corporation strives to provide each of its employees, contractors and consultants with a safe and healthy workplace. Each employee, contractor and consultant has responsibility for maintaining a safe and healthy workplace for other employees by following health and safety rules and practices instituted by the Corporation and by reporting accidents, injuries and unsafe equipment, practices or conditions.

Violence and threatening behavior are not permitted. Employees, contractors and consultants should report to work in condition to perform their duties, free from the influence of illegal drugs or alcohol. The use of illegal drugs or alcohol in the workplace will not be tolerated.

10. RECORD KEEPING

The Corporation requires honest and accurate recording and reporting of information in order to make responsible business decisions.

All of the Corporation's books, records, accounts and financial statements must be maintained in reasonable detail and must conform both to applicable legal requirements and to the Corporation's system of internal controls.

Business records and communications often become public, and we should avoid exaggeration, derogatory remarks and other inappropriate statements about people and other companies. This applies to e-mail, internal memos and formal reports. Records should always be retained or destroyed in accordance with the Corporation's record retention policies. No person shall knowingly alter, destroy or make a false entry in any record with the intent to obstruct a government investigation or bankruptcy case. Directors, officers, employees, contractors and consultants may report any concerns regarding questionable accounting and auditing matters confidentially and anonymously to the Chief Executive Officer or any member of the Audit Committee.

11. ACCURATE AND TIMELY PERIODIC REPORTS

The Corporation is committed to providing its shareholders with full, fair, accurate, timely and understandable disclosure in the periodic reports that it is required to issue to its shareholders. To this end, the Corporation shall:

- (a) comply with generally accepted accounting principles at all times;
- (b) maintain a system of internal accounting controls that will provide reasonable assurances to management that all transactions are properly recorded;
- (c) maintain books and records that accurately and fairly reflect the Corporation's transactions;
- (d) prohibit the establishment of any undisclosed or unrecorded funds or assets;
- (e) maintain a system of internal controls that will provide reasonable assurances to management that material information about the Corporation is made known to management, particularly during the periods in which the Corporation's shareholder reports are being prepared; and
- (f) present information in a clear and orderly manner.

12. POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS

No Corporation assets, including employees' work time, use of the Corporation's facilities or equipment or direct monetary payment, may be contributed to any political candidate, party, political action committee or ballot measure without the permission of the Corporation's Board of Directors. This does not preclude individuals from participating in any political activities of their choice on an individual basis, with their own money and on their own time.

13. REPORTING AND EFFECT OF VIOLATIONS

General Policy

Directors, officers, employees, contractors and consultants are encouraged to report any conduct which they believe in good faith to be violation or apparent violation of this Code. If you believe a violation has occurred, please contact the Corporation's Chief Executive Officer.

The Corporation will not allow any retaliation against a director, officer, employee, contractor or consultant who acts in good faith in reporting any such violation.

Complaint Procedure

Corporation personnel who observe, learn of or, in good faith, suspect a violation of the Code must promptly report the violation or discuss issues and concerns of the type covered by this Code with his or her immediate manager, who in turn is responsible for informing the Chief Executive Officer of any violations or concerns raised. If an employee, contractor or consultant prefers not to report the matter to his or her own manager, the employee may instead report the matter directly to the Chief Executive Officer.

Corporation personnel who have concerns such as accounting discrepancies, fraud, accounting misrepresentations, auditing matters, accounting omissions, ethics violations or any other financially related concerns should report the matter directly to the Chief Executive Officer at the above address or to the Chair of the Audit Committee.

Whenever practical, the complaint should be made in writing. It is unacceptable to submit a complaint knowing it is false.

Investigation

Reports of violations will be investigated under the supervision of the Chair of the Audit Committee in consultation with external counsel, if applicable or desired. Corporation personnel are expected to cooperate in the investigation of reported violations.

Confidentiality

Except as may be required by law or the requirements of the resulting investigation, the Chief Executive Officer and others conducting the investigation shall not disclose the identity of anyone who reports a suspected violation if anonymity is requested.

Protection Against Retaliation

Retaliation in any form against an individual who reports an alleged violation of this Code, even if the report is mistaken, may itself be a violation of law and is a serious violation of this Code. Any alleged act of retaliation must be reported immediately. If determined to have in fact occurred, any act of retaliation may result in appropriate disciplinary action, which may include termination of employment.

14. WAIVERS

The provisions of this Code may be waived only by a resolution of the Corporation's independent directors.

I hereby acknowledge that I have read, understood and will comply with the foregoing Code of Business Conduct and Ethics.

Name (please print)

Signature

Date

Forward originally signed document to Nancy Fontana, Corporate Secretary of the Corporation for inclusion in your personnel file.

Adopted and approved by the Board of Directors of the Corporation effective October 5, 2016.